

SUNBEAMS.

"Snuff for dipping" is advertised by tobacconists in Providence.

Photographs have been obtained in Paris four feet three inches long by three feet four inches in height.

—Champin, the materializing medium whose ludicrous exposure we recently described, was formerly an assistant of the Edinburgh Fox.

—A grave digged at Preston, England, was exhumed and turned up to death while excavating a tomb, thus seriously digging his own grave.

—Russia having exhausted her forests, is looking to the back of Western China for fuel, coal being the greatest want of that immense country.

—A Troy bigamist ran off a back door while two wives were fighting over the question as to which should have him, and has not been seen since.

—An Albany boarding house mistress has discouraged the practice of changing among boarders by throwing a virion on one who proposed to leave her establishment.

—A gentleman visiting a farm house adored some very strong oak chairs. "Yes," said the farmer, "these fastenings especially in the sun."

—There are eighty-two priests, eighty-four choristers, one hundred and five lay clerks, and a Catholic soprano estimated at two hundred thousand in the three dioceses of Texas.

—McAllen and McArthur drank together eight times in a Nevada saloon. Between the seventh and eighth drunks they had a fight, in which knives and pistols were used, but the last glasses were as amicably disposed as the first.

—Mrs. Little Dervous Blinde—after how many years of labor and exhausting study who can tell—has produced the following test: "Sorosis! May it ever systematically that it shall serve other households of happy members."

—A girl oration in a lecture audience in Latrobe, Oregon, then all the others screamed. General consternation ensued, and a rush for the doors. People were bruised, clothes torn, and the room at length was emptied. The first runner between a rat and a lion.

—The Archaeological Society of America has protested against the act of Congress so much as to establish an annual prize if Eng, French, or other powers should ask for similar rights.

—The tombs of Molier and La Fontaine in the Cemetery of Père la Chaise in Paris have fallen into decay. The French Minister of Public Instruction wants to restore them. The author of "Sorosis" may be asked systematically that it shall serve other households of happy members."

—A girl oration in a lecture audience in Latrobe, Oregon, then all the others screamed. General consternation ensued, and a rush for the doors. People were bruised, clothes torn, and the room at length was emptied. The first runner between a rat and a lion.

—The Russian navy has been found in Australia which exceed the giants of California in height, though not in circumference. One fallen tree in Victoria-means 40 feet in height, and 20 in diameter, while the highest yet seen in Australia reaches only 45 feet, even though being from 300 to 400 years old.

—The Rev. Henry Congswell, a former Royal Army Mason and lecturer in the order, has renounced and denounced Freemasonry. At an anti-Masonic convention in Mansfield, Ohio, he read a formal recantation of all the oaths of secrecy which he had taken. He said that he should feel in honor bound, however, to reveal none of the workings of Masonry.

—We are informed that the basement of the new T. S. Jones building will be occupied by a large theater, and yet the T. S. Jones Co. expect a keepsake of Herod Grecy standing in their front window.

—Can such things be?—A woman's son—a summer's cloud, without our special winter?

—The Banner of Light contains every week a page of what pertains to the communications from disembodied spirits to their friends on earth. A careful attention to this wonderful correspondence during the past three months shows that in no instance has the exact place of residence of the spirit while here been given, nor any other hint by which the genuineness of the communication can be tested.

—A right-hand writer (George M. Brown, of New York), lost and slept in a gutter. In the morning he was so badly hurt that both of his hands and one of his feet were amputated.

—CASH BOYS wanted. Apply to LLOYD & TAX, 10th corner of Grand and Christopher st.

A NOTED RUNNER DEAD.

A Horse that Won More Money than any Other that Ever Lived.

The famous English race horse Thotham, sire of the winner of the Derby in 1860, died suddenly of heart disease at Newmarket on Feb. 28. At two years of age he won his owner stakes, and at the age of six had won, started another second or third in the remaining five. His trainer felt confident in his ability to win the blue ribbon of the race on the Epsom Downs, so he sent him to the starting post, and this hope was realized, for he won the Derby by easily, with a length and a half from Wizard, who had won the two previous sprints.

—A grave digged at Preston, England, was exhumed and turned up to death while excavating a tomb, thus seriously digging his own grave.
